

10 camping gear storage ideas so the next trip packs itself

Organize camping gear the week you get home, while you still know what ran out. Build kits by trip type, store soft goods loose, and use a photo of each tote as next summer's packing list.

- ☐ Dry the tent, fly, bags, pads, tarps and towels within 48 hours
- ☐ Store sleeping bags and pads loose
- ☐ Build one tote per kit: kitchen, sleep, backpacking, day-hike
- ☐ Keep fuel canisters upright in a cool, ventilated spot
- ☐ Pull batteries and bag them in the lid
- ☐ Empty all food, wash the pots, store the cooler open
- ☐ Tape a dated restock list inside each lid
- ☐ Keep heavy kits between knee and shoulder, codes on the short side
- ☐ Hang chairs, poles, rods, paddles and boats
- ☐ Photograph every open tote
- ☐ Audit at season's end: repair, replace, donate, re-photograph
